Following her training as a technician for viticulture and oenology, Mirjam Schneider went to New Zealand for half a year, and was inspired by barrique maturation. Indeed, Mirjam Schneider shows she has talent for handling oak maturation. This is shown, for example, by one of her hobby horses, the very good 2009 Merlot, which packs quite a punch, and has good depth. Great successes, too, are the Scheurebe, Pinot Blanc and Gris as well as the beguiling Riesling from the Pettenenthal site. Good stuff! A good advertisement for winemaking in Mainz.
